

Value/Momentum Model (VMO)

The Ford Value/Momentum Model was introduced in 1998 and enhanced to the current six factor model in March 1999. This model combines three successful styles of stock selection, earnings momentum, relative value and price momentum. The earnings momentum portion of the model includes historical data as measured by Ford's Earnings Momentum Model, and earnings expectations represented by estimate revision and surprise. These earnings momentum factors are combined with Ford's Operating Earnings Yield as a value measure and Ford's Price Momentum Model as a shorter term entry and exit indicator, to produce a model that delivers exceptional performance. The Value/Momentum Model is presented as a percentile of the Ford Universe of stocks with 100 as best. Ford considers a VMO score of 70 or higher as a buy candidate and 30 or lower a sell candidate.

2016	10.3
2018	2.5

Performance is based on ranking the Ford Universe from best to worst for the model shown and dividing it into 10 equal-sized groups each month. The group returns represent equal-dollar investments in each stock each month, with monthly total returns linked to create annual and annualized results. Total returns, which sum month-end price changes and 1/12 of companies' indicated annual dividend rates, exclude transaction costs and management fees. The Ford Universe had had 4023 companies at the end of 2018.

Quantitative model results are affected by market environment and are based on historical financial data. Certain material information for a company may not be reflected in models presented. The performance shown is based on large portfolios and may not be effective on every security. There is no assurance that future results will duplicate past results.
